

Primitive Methodist Church - High Street, Donington

Date: 1907

Place: High Street, Donington, Lincolnshire, England

Description: This Church was Built for the Primitive Methodists and was on the High Street, opposite the library. The photo seems to have 1907 written in the bottom left corner. The building has since been demolished, and was on the site that was also once occupied by Burdells Trucks, now recognisable by a row of red brick arches. Possibly originally Burdells took the front off the church to create a repair garage which was later demolished in favour of new purpose built premises.
