

OPENING OF THE NEW CHAPEL AND SUNDAY SCHOOL AT WHITEHOUGH.
(Bradwell Circuit.)

At Whitehough, in the Bradwell circuit, a new Primitive Methodist Connexional chapel and Sunday school were opened for divine worship, on Sunday, August 23, 1840. Mr. James Ingham of New Mills, preached at two o'clock in the afternoon, and the Rev. Mr. Glossop, Independent minister, at six in the evening. The congregations were large, services powerful, and the collections liberal. It was the commencement of a new era in the village and neighbourhood, causing the moral wilderness to blossom as the rose.

The chapel is twenty-seven feet long, by twenty-one wide; built of good stone, slated, and well lighted with large sash windows. It is eligibly situated in the centre of an increasing population, who have come forward to the help of the Lord, in contributing their monies towards defraying the expenses connected with the building; so that the remaining debt is but trifling, and easy to bear. And the Rev. Mr. Glossop has presented a new bible to the trustees, for the use of the chapel.

The Sunday school commenced August 30, with great promise of success. We have now one hundred and thirty regular scholars, and a good number of attentive teachers; and the chapel is too small already to accommodate the people who wish to attend.

In answer to persevering faithful prayer, the Holy Spirit has been poured out upon us from on high, a REVIVAL is begun, and upwards of twenty souls have been converted the last fortnight. To God be all the glory. The blessed work is beginning to move in other places also.

Through the medium of our magazine, we tender our thanks to the trustees, and all the friends who have taken an active part in this glorious work, praying that they may be rewarded in this life, and in that which is to come. Accept of my Christian regards. Pray for us.
